SCHOLARSHIP

Note: Authors are generally listed in decreasing order of contribution. The first author is usually the person who conducted most of the work and wrote the main contents of the manuscript. Depending upon the discipline in which the work is published, the senior author responsible for securing funding may be listed the 2nd or last position, especially when mentoring students and/or co-investigators. These papers are noted with an “*” when appropriate, to denote senior authorship despite being listed last. Papers written with graduate students are denoted with “+”.
